What is more important is self-exploration. She also made the audience aware of the SWOT Analysis that is discovering our own strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats in the process of exploring our true selves. She gave the six necessary steps to be followed on our journey to self-wakeup in the morning, take up things that you wanted to do as a child, do the things that scare you, make peace with your past, five minutes of solitude and maintain a journal. The session was open to all to share their own journey of discovery and clear their doubts. The session was concluded by a vote of thanks.
