5. Detail Description of the Event:

One Day workshop on "The Art of Searching: Non-Patent Literature" was organized by Department of History on July 26, 2019. The resource person of the event was   Mr. Deenmani Panday. He broadly addressed the issue of conducting targeted search of databases for contextual information with special emphasis on approaches, strategies and methods. Stressing on effective ways to mine required information early in research, he reiterated the need of mastering the 'Art of Searching' by the young researchers, taking examples from some of the subscribed and free non-patent databases available in the Library. With some practical examples he demonstrated how varying sets of information can be retrieved with different usage of punctuations along with the key words. Last part of the discussion was focused on understanding the basis behind various Research Productivity Indicators provided by different citation databases like Web of Science, Scopus etc. He appraised the gathered audience about the actual mechanism with which such indices come up with the analysis and evaluation. He also discussed the importance of such indicators and how these tend to affect. Asst. Prof. Zafer discussed on the importance of choosing the right database for a specific search for obtaining optimum output. He highlighted the potential of the huge information contained in the sources and described how a proper search in the appropriate database can either fish out seemingly inaccessible information or help in identification of the library in the world that contains it.
